

PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality Course

The PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality Course is recommended to those who want to stay dry on a dive. A dry suit seals you off from the cold and keeps you dry even when diving in surprisingly cold waters. After completing the PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality course you will be able to not only dive the warmer waters of the world, but in any other challenging and cold conditions. By doing the PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality Course you will be able to extend the dive season by being able to dive during the colder winter months or in areas known for cold water diving.

By wearing the right cold water scuba diving gear you are able to face the elements and dive in the colder waters during winter months. The advantage of diving in cold water is better visibility offered by inland dive sites such as quarries, lakes, sinkholes and caves. As a PADI Dry Suit Diver you will be able to enjoy some of the world's most incredible dive sites located in the cooler regions of the world. These sites are best enjoyed in a dry suit, even during the warmer months.

Practical skills you learn during the PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality Course:

- How to familiarize yourself with your dry suit
- How to do safety checks
- Entry techniques
- Doing a bubble check
- Doing a buoyancy check
- Different descent techniques
- Fin Pivot
- How to hover
- Excess gas in feet emergency roll drill
- Stuck inflator emergency drill
- Stuck exhaust valve emergency drill
- Ascent procedure: Remove and replace scuba unit and weight belt on the surface
- Exit techniques: Removal of dry suit, storage and maintenance

Why does Orca recommend the PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality Course?

Divers who want to see and experience the amazing and prolific aquatic life often found in colder water climates will need to do the PADI Dry Suit Diver Speciality course to be able to dive in these conditions and to stay warm in cold waters.
